Associated Charities Devises Ticket

System to Help Really

Needy Beggars.

MEANS END OF "PANHANDLING"

Not nickels and dimes, but "first-aid" tickets, will be Washington's contribution to "panhandling" or street beggars in the future.

The Associated Charities have devised a plan to cope with street beggars with a package of tickets that looks like a mileage book.

For years, the quiet folks of the Capital have been shelling out dimes and nickels to the boys who hang along the curbstone and tell a story of a night's lodging, a bite to eat or milk and shoes for the baby. For years, Washington has sought for some method to beat the "panhandler" without recourse to the Police Court.

"First-aid" ticket system not only puts the gentle arts of "panhandling" and "crust-throwing" into the discard, but keeps a card-index record of the man who gets the ticket. Business and professional men of the city received books of "first-aid" tickets yesterday.

The tickets are about as large as a calling card and are serially numbered. They read:

"We have directed the bearer to call at your office. You will please give him need of help immediate attention."

The cards are addressed to the Associated Charities, 522 H Street Northwest.

If a man who is really in need approaches a citizen on the street and asks for money, the citizen takes out his book of tickets, tears off one and sends the man to the Associated Charities. By the number of the ticket, the agents of the charity organization can report to the Police Court what steps were taken in providing for the applicant.

BOY EDITOR WOULD BE WAR CORRESPONDENT

Norman L. Sper, Twenty, Founder of Boy Scout Magazine, Applies for Credentials.

The youngest magazine editor in the United States—Norman L. Sper, of Brooklyn, N. Y.—applied to Gen. Hugh Scott, assistant chief of staff of the army yesterday for the credentials of a war correspondent in Mexico and permission to go to New York on a United States vessel.

Young Sper, who is only twenty years old, is editor of the Boy Scout Review, and lives in Brooklyn.

Four years ago, when he was sixteen years old, he interested some New York newspaper men in the possibilities of a Boy Scout magazine in Brooklyn.

They helped him get out his first issue. Six months later, he sold the publication to the Boy Scouts of America, and since then he has been the publisher of the magazine.

When seventeen years old, he was sent from New York to San Francisco and got into a bad scrape. He was also the youngest member in the party of suffrage "bikers" from New York to Washington in February, 1912.

Sper is the youngest man permitted to apply for credentials within the past fifty years.

WORK BEGINS SATURDAY
ON PAGEANT COSTUMES

Big Attendance Expected at General
Rehearsal of Production Tonight at Headquarters.

Nimble and skillful fingers, directed by minds that know their work, tomorrow morning will start to work on the costumes for the pageant which is to be produced here next month in the interest of charity.

Costuming of participants is but one of the many big works that the committee and management of the pageant have to consider. An invitation has been extended to the Scouts to participate in the production. Producer George Lusk has called the first rehearsal for Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Announcement also is made that the Boy Scout organization is to receive a direct benefit from the activity.

The sale of seats for "The Fire Rehearsal" has been opened at the Percy S. Foster Piano Company, 1330 G Street Northwest.

Austria has 74,267 miles of highway. In 1910 the government expended $55,268,000 on roadway maintenance.

THE TOWN CRIER

Gallaudet College will hold its semi-centennial presentation day exercises

Wednesday afternoon, May 6, at Kendall Green.

Miss C. Lepp, of the Consumers' League of the District of Columbia, gave an interesting address before the Young Women's Christian Association last night.

Capt. W. E. P. French, U. S. A., will address the George Washington Society for the study of Socialism tomorrow night at 8 o'clock on "Military Socialism."

Takoma Lodge, No. 29, F. A. M., was the guest of Washington-Alexandria Lodge in Alexandria last night. The lodge members witnessed the simplification of the M. M. degree and inspected the lodge room and museum.

Claude E. Holmes will speak on "Attacks on Protestant Missions" at the meeting of the American Federation of Patriotic Societies in Pythian Temple tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock.

Representative James T. Lloyd, of Missouri, will discuss the Varieties of Government Under the United States Flag before members of the University Club and their guests tomorrow night at 9 o'clock.

Frank McIntyre, son of Brig. Gen. McIntyre, chief of the Bureau of Investigation, will speak on "The War Department" at his home in Montgomery, Ala., two days ago, had just completed a course of study for admission to West Point.

C. W. Pafford, of Russia, will speak before the Pythian Temple Sunday at 3 p. m. on the "ritual murder" accusation in general and the Mendel Beilis case in particular. Mr. Pafford will trace the "blood libel" to its earliest antiquity and unfold the political plot that culminated in the trial of Beilis at Kiev, Russia.

Arrangement Starts Soon.

Also it was pointed out that the reverse of this judgment would have been to select a European nation, which might have given Gen. Huerta occasion to retaliate his charge that the United States was unable to find another friend in the western hemisphere.

The Brazilian Embassy last night said that it would have no announcement to make regarding the newly established relation of "next friend of the United States" in Mexico. It was said that affairs in Mexico City would be at once adjusted in consonance with the agreement reached between the United States and Mexico, would forthwith assume charge of America's property, archives, and interests.

France will act as Mexico's "next friend" in Washington. Arrangements were perfected yesterday for M. Jusserand, the French Ambassador, to visit Mexico in this capital as long as war is on between the United States and Mexico.

Peace and quiet reigned around the Mexican Embassy last night in striking contrast with the scenes of riot and disorder that prevailed in front of the Spanish legation when war broke out in 1908. At that time a feeling of ugly resentment against the United States was manifested by the blowing up of the Maine. A lone policeman had his station before the Mexican Embassy last night, and he had little to do. Night and then a stranger passed by would stop a moment and gaze up curiously at the darkened windows of the embassy building.

Senor Alagars quit the embassy building a few minutes after 10 o'clock last night. He had been in conference for an hour or more with Dr. Alfredo de Castro, secretary of the Uruguayan legation. Alagars and Castro are intimate personal friends, and Castro had called to say farewell. Alagars jumped into an automobile accompanied by two friends, and was hastily driven away. He expects to be on Canadian soil tonight.

BANK CLERKS NOMINATE.

Nominations for an election of officers May 14 were made at a meeting of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, in Gude's Hall, last night, as follows: W. W. Spald, president; F. V. Grayson, secretary; J. A. Petty, treasurer; T. J. Moore, assistant secretary; and J. C. Gifford, assistant treasurer.

The board of governors, W. G. Rogers, C. D. Beyer, C. N. Doling, Jr., F. R. Devereux, Charles T. Beaumont, A. R. Varella, P. M. Garza, and that of the United States delegates were named for the annual convention at Dallas, Tex., in September.

LIND DENIES "INTERVIEW."

"I never speak for publication," He Tells Reporter.

John Lind, until recently President Wilson's special representative in Mexico, yesterday denied in an interview printed in several newspapers to the effect that the battle cry is not to be "On to Mexico," but "Clean up Tampico," and "Blockade all the ports," and that Huerta's army was not effective enough to resist.

"I never speak for publication," said Mr. Lind. "I did not make these statements. Even if I had spoken for publication, I would not have said that."

TOTS ARE EXPERT WEAVERS.

Neighborhood House Exhibition
Draws Crowd of Spectators.

The interesting feature yesterday of the week's exhibit for the Neighborhood House, being held at 607 Fourteenth street, was a basket-weaving contest among the young workers in the show window.

Seven and eight-year-olds hung their curly heads over bright hued strings of raffia and wove in and out deftly and quickly until the form of a basket had begun to appear, and then a little more decided design showed and then, the completed piece of work was shown to the passers-by, who had stopped in front of the window to watch.

Inside the store was shown an exhibit of baskets made by the pupils in the Neighborhood House. There were wicker baskets of big office size down to tiny baskets that would only hold a thimble, and of all the shapes and sizes that Mrs. Rainbow weaves her garments of.

Tomorrow the loom-weavers will give an exhibition of their art from 4 until 6 o'clock in the store room, though their work will be on display in the store all day. Tea will be served to the visitors during the afternoon.

CRITICISES PRESIDENT'S ACT

embargo on arms going into Mexico, including, of course, the northern border

as well as Vera Cruz.

Relations with Villa.

"I feel this matter very deeply, from my intense dislike to seeing this country mixed up directly or indirectly with Pancho Villa. I think the distinction we are making is one that is utterly false, both from the military and moral view."

Senator Borah, of Idaho, said: "When the President announced that a certain individual should not be a candidate for the Presidency of Mexico, and that we should ignore the elections to be held there, he announced a policy the inevitable logic of which was war with Mexico, unless that policy was afterward modified. When we undertook to censor the internal conditions of that country it was necessary that sometime we should go there to carry out that program."

"We now are in armed conflict with Huerta and all the forces Huerta represents, supposedly ten or twelve millions of Mexicans. This morning we are advised that we are at war with Carranza or will be at war with him unless we change our program. The logic of this situation is that we are at war with Mexico. Before another forty-eight hours, in my judgment, we will be at war with United Mexico."

"It devolves upon Congress now to determine, not whether we shall require armaments from an individual, but when we are ready to recognize the fact that we are at war with Mexico. I think it ought to be declared to be the policy of Congress that the United States will withdraw as an interfering power in Mexico, in Nicaragua, in Honduras, and say to the republics of Central America: 'We will respect the integrity of your government and will take part in your affairs only at your request and in the most friendly manner.'"

Says United States Meddles.

"It is said that the United States today is the most unpopular member of the family of nations. It is said to be so because we disregard our treaty obligations. That is not the reason. The reason is that we are interfering in the affairs of other nations. We are interfering in the internal conditions of other nations to our own people. Do the people of the United States understand today that the only government in Nicaragua is the government which the United States provides? Do the people understand that if the marines were withdrawn from the White House at Managua the government which exists there would dissolve like mist before the sun? Do the people understand that we are sustaining by force a government which is in contravention of the wishes of 80 per cent of the people of Nicaragua?"

"The reason why we are unpopular and suspected is because, while protesting and professing to these smaller nations, we are in several ways constantly encroaching upon them and interfering in their affairs with the ultimate object, as the world believes, of taking possession of them and their sovereignty. For myself, therefore, I want to see Congress declare its policy."

May Not Get Out.

"I took the liberty of saying the other day that if the flag of the United States came down, I do not modify my views this morning. I would regard it a national crime for the United States to go to war against the United States. We will be in contention with them until such time that we lost the habit of coming out."

"It does not mean to impeach the integrity of the President or his view as expressed at Mobile, but neither should any individual control the logic of events nor measure the consequences of war. And the policy of administration, but pursued in the preceding one, inevitably will lead to the United States taking every step to get out of the United States as fast as it can."

Lewis Raps Republicans.

Senator Lewis charged that if Carranza is now found in a hostile attitude to the United States, it is due to the opposition of the Republicans and their failure to support the President in his policy of peace.

Senator Lewis also presented the suggestion by Senator Lewis that Republican Senators were trying to embarrass the President.

"It is said," he said, "because I admire the people that I am now trying to help relieve 15,000,000 Mexican people who are being harried by Huerta's ambition, on one hand, and Villa's robbery and murder on the other. This city has been overflowing with men who have been driven out of Mexico, American citizens, who are anxious to give the State Department information concerning conditions there. They have no place to go except to the State Department. They appear to be distressed by those who ought to be willing to hear them. The mistake from the beginning in this Mexican policy has been in the assumption that Villa represents anything other than the spirit of murder, rapine and lust."
